Emotional Intelligence in Business

40-60 Minute Workshop

Description: These are experience based and interactive workshops where we cover Emotional Intelligence and the impact it has on the particular businesses in the room, their gaps in profitability, and explain why it's essential to their specific growth needs, particularly coming out of the Covid Era.

People are more exhausted than ever, the lines between work and home have been blurred like never before, and we are inundated with information coming at us from all different directions. People are starving for more engagement among peers and employees yet are struggling with how to navigate this within their company and keep their employees engaged and committed to the company's vision.

We learn how we can cultivate more Emotional Intelligence within the organization that not only helps at work, but also in your personal life as well. If you are not operating at the best of your ability on a personal level, you will never be able to give your best in the workplace. We uncover what's keeping employees stuck with the continued shifting requirements and changes that Covid brings that's caused employee exhaustion and disengagement.

Learn how to connect with your C-Suite, Sales teams and management in a way that is impactful and re-engages them on a whole new level so they can close the gap on their potential and performance while leading from a place of authenticity.

Tangible action items are included to enhance your company's sales, growth and internal communication, leading to increased productivity and employee and client happiness and retention.
